

Have you made a victim submission to the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse?

Are you interested in talking about what this experience was like?

You are invited to participate in a research study being conducted by Rebecca Moran, a PhD student at Western Sydney University.

The study seeks to understand people's experiences of making a victim submission (written, verbal or both) to the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse.

The study is focused on how you felt and feel about providing testimony, the impact of the experience on you, and the difference that you think or hope your testimony will make – on you, and on society.

If you are interested in being interviewed about your experience of telling your story to the Royal Commission, please contact Rebecca for more information by emailing r.moran@westernsydney.edu.au

Participation is entirely voluntary and confidential. Your interview will take around two hours, and can be in person, or via telephone or Skype if you prefer.

Participating in this research project is intended to be a validating and safe experience for you, and it is hoped that you will find it meaningful to reflect on the experience of telling your story to the Royal Commission.

Please feel free to share this information with anyone you know who may be interested in participating.
